

Blown by the Wind

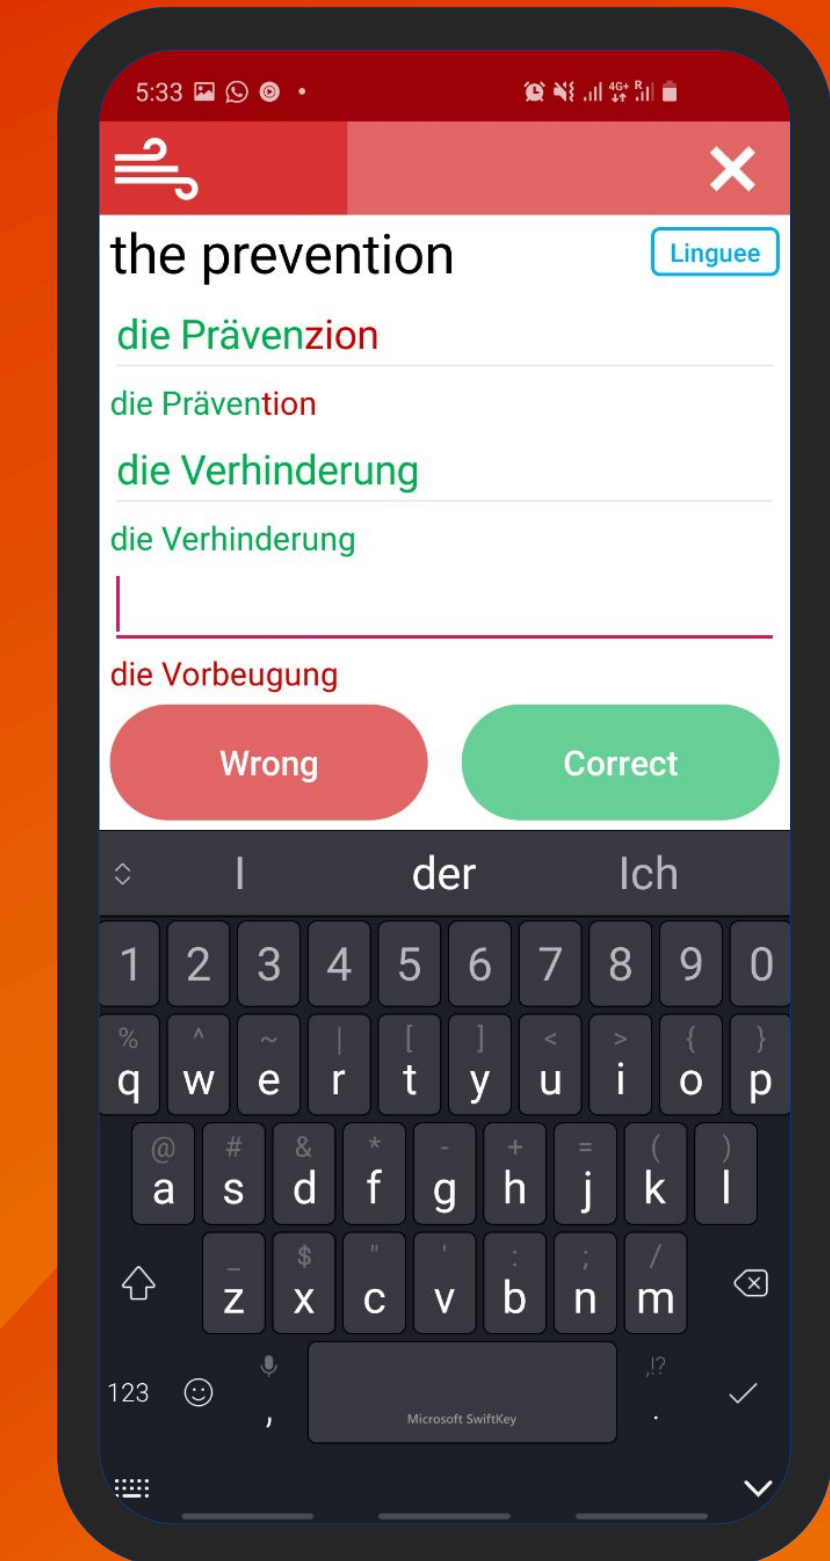

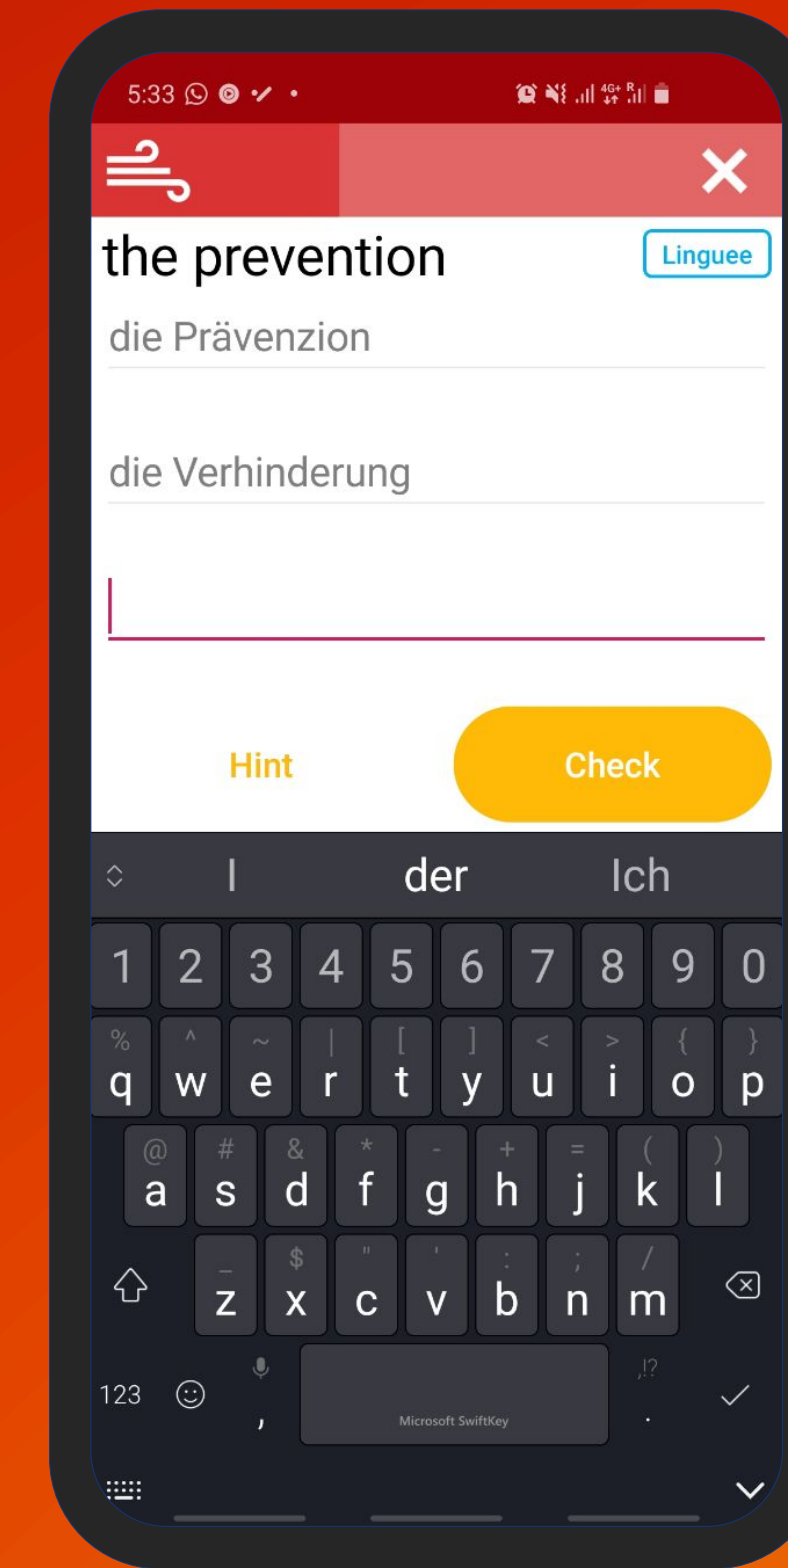

Blown by the Wind is an Android app for learning German words.

Educational

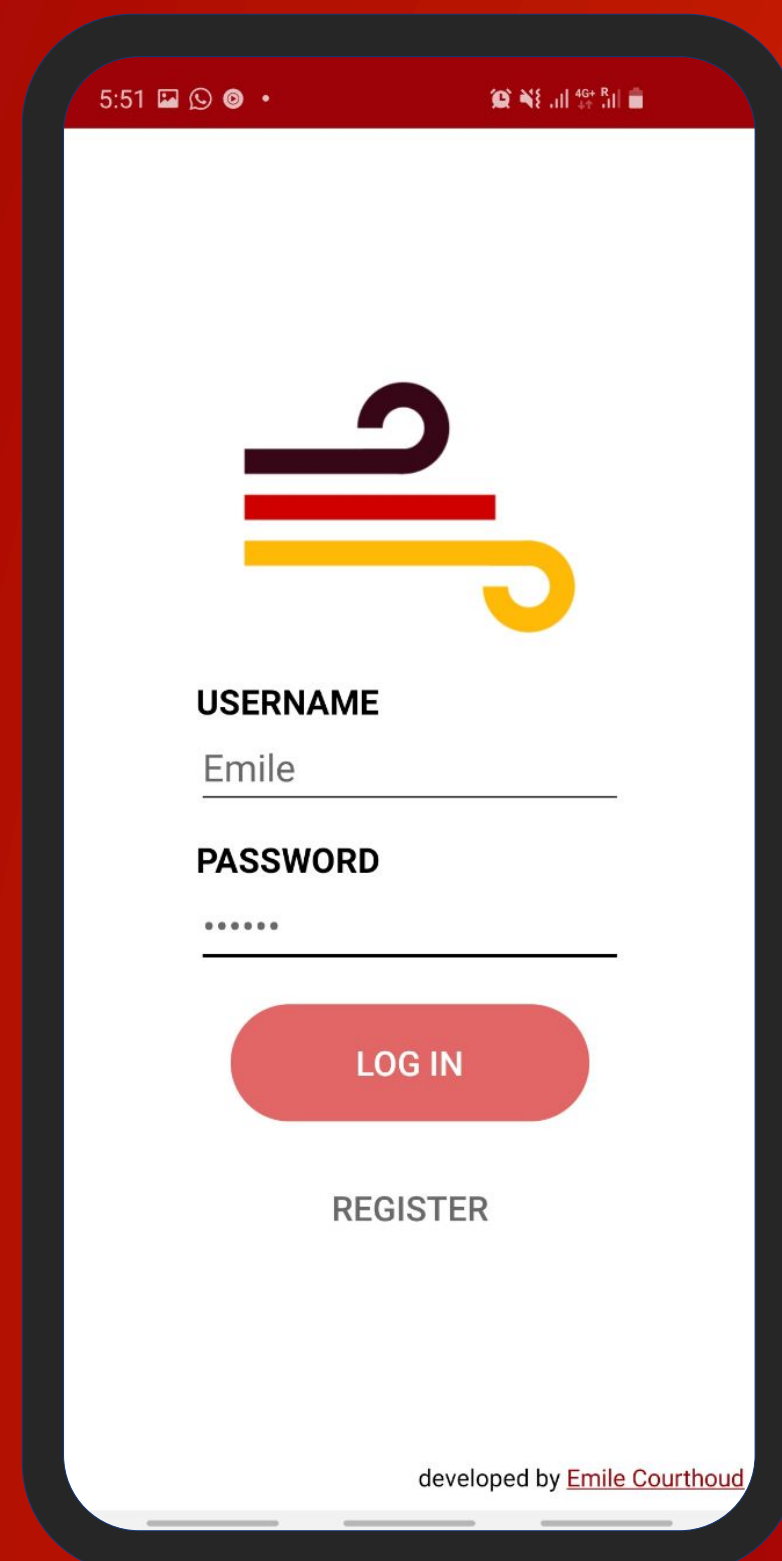

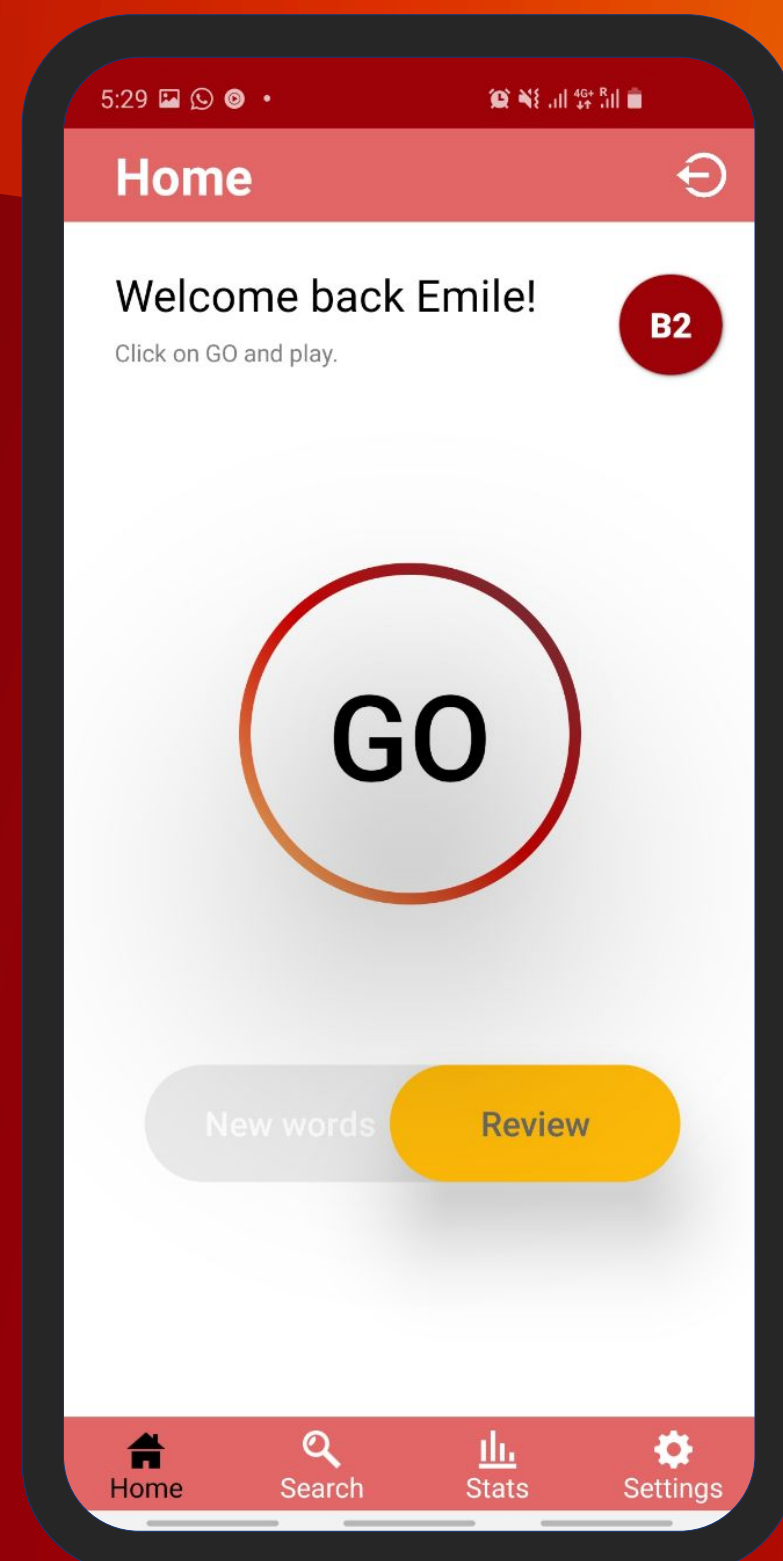

The training consists of a set of words to translate from English to German. Ask for a suggestion in case you feel lost!

Simple

The app is designed to be extremely easy to use: just log in, select your level of German, and you're ready to GO!

Dynamic

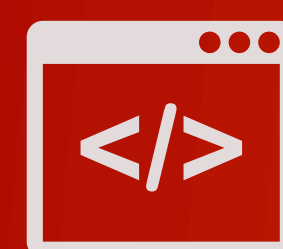

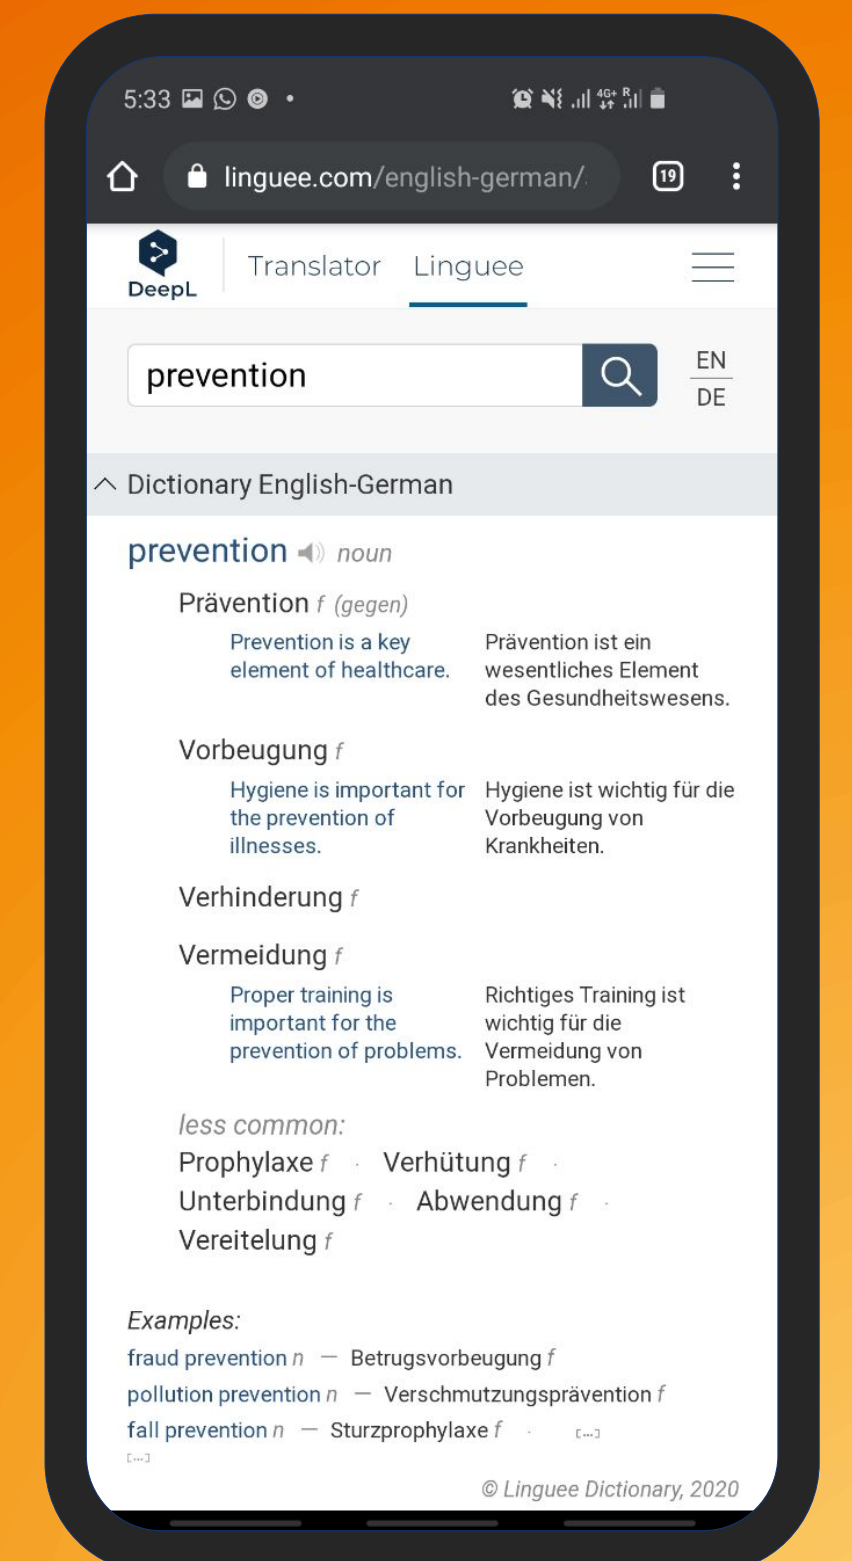

The color code will help you visualize your mistakes. Besides, a intelligent algorithm will keep track of your correct and wrong attempts and suggest new words to optimize your learning process.

Insightful

Whenever you need extra support, the app will direct you to the brilliant website www.linguee.com, where you can check out the definition of the words, their pronunciation and much more.

Blown by the Wind was developed by Emile Courthoud in 2020. The application, built in Android Studio, has a Java-based architecture. It leverages a SQLite database, and uses HTML/CSS for the user interface.
